IST 2203 1 -- Environmental Racism: The Problem with Water (OL)

Elective Course - 4 credits

Miguel De La Torre

All too often, environmentalism occurs from the perspective of the dominant Eurocentric culture. How do we begin to examine the degradation of our planet from the margins. This course will study water and its intersection with environmental racism.

IST 2247 1 -- Indigenous Ecological Knowledge (OL)

Elective Course - 4 credits

Mark Freeland

This course will demonstrate an Indigenous methodology of engaging with their respective environments to promote the flourishing of all life. It will use Indigenous origin narratives, linguistic analysis, and contemporary case studies to articulate a cogent understanding of Indigenous relationships to the environment.

IST 3010 1 -- Pilgrimage Comparative Perspective (OL)

Pilgrimage/Comp. Persp. - 4 credits

Jacob Kinnard

This is a comparative course that examines the dynamics of pilgrimage from a number of different angles - theoretical, doctrinal, ritual, social - and which utilizes a variety of sources - including classical, ethnographic studies of actual pilgrimages, and focused studies of particular pilgrimage places - with the goal of gaining a thorough understanding of the phenomena of pilgrimage in all of its complexity. (THEO 6447)

IST 3102 1 -- Atheists, Secularists & Nones (OL)

Atheists, Secularist & Non - 4 credits

Tony Alumkal

An examination of non-religious and/or non-affiliated populations, with a primary focus on the United States. We will explore: 1) the variety of beliefs among those not affiliated with religious institutions; 2) different social expressions of atheism; 3) the implications of recent religious trends for debates about secularization in the modern West.
